

Digital Learning Design and Development

Empowering Students to Succeed

KnowledgeWorks Global Learning (KGL) is an innovative, full-service provider of cost-effective learning solutions and immersive experiences. Whether delivering instruction through learning management systems (LMS), creating applications and activities that augment or replace traditional textbooks, producing interactive widgets, or developing assessments to track student performance, we are experts in creating engaging, measurable, and results-driven content for online learning.

Our team of professionals has long worked with publishers, schools, and universities to create digital learning portfolios for a wide variety of subjects and grade levels. From online platforms to mobile applications and everything in between, our team is experienced in designing and developing today's market-leading products.
